

TRANSITIONS CONFERENCES DESCRIPTION

Why a Transitions Conference? According to AAUW research many women are returning to school to seek economic growth. The Transitions Conference is designed to help these “transitional women” overcome common problems including: Academic anxiety; inadequate funding; lack of information about course selection; application process; potential jobs; and judging home, work and school. More than one branch another organizations can participate in sponsoring a Transitions Conference and can help in planning , funding, networking, scholarships, and presenting information at the conference. Resources include the AAUW CONFERENCE PLANNING GUIDE(used successfully by branches), local training and support organizations such as a community college or university, and successful ”transitional women”.
